14 Statement of Purpose

14.1 Background and Introduction

Pakistan has an emerging modern digital infrastructure, and with the emergence of 3G/4G, its internet usage growth rate is the second highest in the SAARC countries. According to the PTA, broadband subscribers have now crossed 147 million. Pakistan's e-commerce market is the 46th largest market with a revenue of US$5.4 billion in 2024, as digitalization paved the way for the services sector. Pakistan's cyberspace is at risk, and it is among the countries experiencing the most cyberattacks. Hence, it is high time to develop a strong cybersecurity capability.

The urgent need to secure data and systems becomes more obvious each day. Digital assets, including the digital critical infrastructure, are under constant attack. On the whole, enterprises lack the knowledge, training, and tools to establish effective, sustainable defense. The persistent vulnerability of individuals, enterprises, and entire industry sectors to a range of malefactors, from common criminals to terrorist networks and nation-states, is an unavoidable reality.

Despite the growing space and sophistication of cyber threats, there are not enough people equipped with the appropriate knowledge, skills, and abilities to protect information technology for strategic advantage. The Global Risk Report 2025, World Economic Forum (WEF), calls cybersecurity one of the key threats of the next decade.

It has been known that there is a severe shortage of cybersecurity specialists in Pakistan. Yet universities are slow to react to this need to educate more cybersecurity professionals. Most universities currently do not offer degrees in Information Security (IS).

Ignite organized Pakistan's first Cybersecurity Hackathon in 2021, followed by the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th hackathons in 2022, 2023, and 2024, which have enhanced cybersecurity readiness, protection, and incident response capabilities of the country by conducting cyber drills in Capture the Flag (CTF) style in multiple cities.

This year, Ignite is taking the competition to the next level. The competition will be conducted in major cities, followed by the Final in Islamabad. The event will comprise CTF competition, Blue Teaming, Pwn-2-Own, Keynote Speeches, panel discussions, quiz competitions, and a demonstration of products and services offered by the industry and research labs.

14.2 Goals/Objectives

The main goals of conducting the competition are as follows:

- a) Proposed competition may offer a good chance to introduce security specialists to modern attack vectors, kill chains, and advanced tactics and technologies used by different cybersecurity expert teams from around the world.
- b) Proposed competition will help find new cybersecurity talent within a country. Holding such an activity can be a great way of identifying people who have the aptitude and skills to accept the challenge.
- c) Proposed competition can be used as a team-building and security-awareness exercise for an enterprise's employees, especially organizations regulated under MOITT, PTA, SBP, and NEPRA. As a result of the event, each organization will acquire awareness, knowledge, and skills that will enhance its overall security capabilities.

15 Scope of Work

The proposed Cybersecurity Competition is a capture the flag (CTF) contest for cybersecurity experts to be organized in the form of a game, in which the participants will solve computer security problems. They must either capture (attack/bring down) or defend computer systems in a CTF environment. Typically, these competitions are team-based and attract a diverse range of participants, including students, enthusiasts, and professionals. The duration of this competition will be 10 hours. The winning team or individual scoring the most points in the 1st round will be qualified for the final round of the competition. Three Prizes will be awarded for first, second, and third places. In the interest of contest integrity and respect for the platform, ground rules will be shared with participants before the event.

The following are the main responsibilities of the competition to be addressed by the bidder:

- a) Provisioning, configuration, and deployment of the complete hardware stack required for the competition, encompassing servers, network switches, firewalls, and all ancillary networking materials, including Endpoints LAN connectivity (Gig) for each participant.
- b) Provision of managed cloud services for hosting a diverse range of challenges, from web apps and binaries to full-network simulations.
- c) A reliable internet solution featuring a primary 100 Mbps fiber connection (300 Mbps in Islamabad regional round) at each site, a backup connection for redundancy, customized security access, and continuous performance monitoring.
- d) Demonstration of capability to provide managed services in the context of CTF & Blue teaming competition to the technical committee;
- e) Arrangement of UPS to support at least 5 minutes of backup for network and server connectivity (Not laptops).
- f) The provision of a comprehensive software platform capable of managing all aspects of the Capture The Flag (CTF) competition includes essential features such as: a dynamic scoring server supporting First Blood bonuses (awarded for the first valid submission of a flag) and other scoring mechanics like headshots (for exquisite solutions); real-time monitoring of session and team activity to prevent cheating; an engaging graphical dashboard for participants and spectators, displaying live scores, solve progress, and a leaderboard with system-generated announcements; a system for generating random flags, validating submissions, and maintaining detailed submission logs; customizable reporting with filters (e.g., time-based, difficulty-based, team-wise) for in-depth post-game analysis; an integrated mechanism to capture participant feedback on individual challenges; and comprehensive logging of all actions performed by teams and individual members.

- g) Development of at least 100 Jeopardy-style CTFs for 7 sessions and the pre-qualifying stage. The proposed distribution for CTFs is 10 CTFs per location' i.e.; 40 easy (15 mins each), 30 medium (30 mins each), and 30 hard (60 minutes each). The participating team will provide a write-up of each solved CTF. The write-up covers challenge analysis, the use of specific tools, and the thought process in solving the CTF. The successful bidder will be responsible for collecting and evaluating these write-ups.
- h) The challenge library must comprehensively cover the modern threat landscape. It requires an equal distribution of challenges across both foundational and advanced categories, including reverse engineering, cryptography, web exploitation, binary exploitation (Pwn), mobile security, forensics, networking, and critically, emerging domains like AI security (e.g., model poisoning, adversarial attacks), blockchain & smart contract vulnerabilities, and OT/IoT security.
- i) In the second part, a comprehensive Blue Team competition component is used to simulate real-world Security Operations Center (SOC) activities. The required features for this module are:
  - i) Scenario & Environment: Participants must be provided with a isolated, realistic "digital twin" of a corporate IT infrastructure, including workstations, servers, network devices (firewalls, switches), and critical services (AD, DNS, Web Servers).
  - ii) Attack Simulation: The platform must generate and execute several consecutive, massive attack waves against each team's environment. These attacks should emulate modern threats (e.g., ransomware deployment, APT lateral movement, DDoS, phishing-based initial access).
  - iii) Scoring Mechanism: Points will be awarded based on:
  - iv) Defensive Actions: Successfully blocking malicious traffic, isolating compromised hosts, patching vulnerabilities, and hardening systems.
  - v) Forensic Investigation: Identifying indicators of compromise (IOCs), determining the initial attack vector, and mapping the kill chain.
  - vi) Reporting: Submitting clear, concise, and accurate incident reports for each attack wave, detailing the findings and response actions taken.

- vii) Visibility: Teams must be provided with standard defensive toolsets within the environment, such as SIEM logs (e.g., Elastic Stack), firewall consoles, EDR alerts, and system logs to facilitate their investigation.
- j) In the third part of the competition, which is the “PWN-2-OWN” module; Participants will be tasked with attempting to exploit vulnerabilities in the target systems or software within a set time frame. The goal is to gain control or “own” the target system, often by executing specific actions or accessing sensitive data. This activity will be performed at the Grand Finale.
- k) Testing of complete challenges before launch and providing demo and walk-through to the technical committee
- l) Boarding and Lodging of staff and logistics to cover 7 venues (i.e., Karachi, Lahore, Peshawar, Multan, Quetta, and Islamabad followed by the grand finale in Islamabad.

15.1 Competition Environment

Depending on the format of the competition and other preferences, different types of infrastructure can be chosen for the competitive environment. National or International platforms can be used for conducting the competition. Normally, it is designed to emulate both the IT and OT networks of a real-world industrial infrastructure.

All the Hackathon venues will be networked and power-enabled for each team in the competition. The participating teams will bring their laptops. The setup will be installed one day before the competition, followed by 2 days of competition for 10 hours each day.

15.2 Competition Format

There are several variations on the capture the flag format style competition. The most popular styles are jeopardy, attack-defense, and a mix of the two. The competition will use jeopardy style in the pre-qualifying round. During the regional and Finale rounds, a mix of jeopardy and blue teaming. Teams will compete and apply their skills and knowledge to solve a diverse range of challenges in novel and creative ways.

17 Project Duration/Timeline

The Successful Bidder is required to conduct the event in 4-5 months.

17.1 Competition Timeline

A successful national-level competition consists of several stages, as follows:

17.1.1 Initiation Stage (Consultation Stage)

The management committee will conduct meetings with potential bidders to address the queries regarding the competition keeping in view the different aspects of the event. During the meeting, the management committee will provide all the necessary information to the potential bidders.

17.1.2 Planning Stage

At this stage, the management committee and the successful bidder will plan all the required resources and budget allocation by the agreed-upon plan. This stage usually takes about 2 weeks. Based on the time and budget estimates, the final plan will be prepared, detailing all the required resources, budget items, and logistics. The final plan will be reviewed and agreed upon by the committee and the successful bidder.

17.2 Preparation Stage

At this stage, the successful bidder will design and create the contest environment and desired infrastructure in collaboration with CTF team to run the pre-qualification, regional rounds, and the finals. The duration of this stage depends on the type and scope of the contest and is typically at least 1 month. This, along with preparing the virtual environment for the participating teams, will take 2 to 3 weeks. The successful bidder will start activities to prepare the venue and infrastructure to conduct the final.

17.3 Regional Rounds of Competition

At this stage, all teams registered for the contest will attempt to solve CTF challenges in their respective regional locations. Ignite will make all the necessary announcements to launch the regional rounds. The management committee will monitor all activities and ensure the quality environment is available throughout the rounds, providing participants with assistance to ensure that the contest runs smoothly and all participants have equal opportunities to win. In addition, all of the participants' attack-related activity, including their successful attacks, will be tracked and logged, with network traffic backed up for further analysis.

17.4 Final Round of Competition

At this stage, the successful teams will travel to Islamabad to participate in the finals. Ignite and the successful bidder will prepare the venue and the required infrastructure for the Final and the successful bidder will make necessary improvements which will be highlighted in the initial rounds.

The awards ceremony will take place when the finals are over and all the scores have been calculated. Finally, the infrastructure will be shut down and disconnected. After this, only the management committee and selected specialists will have access to the data collected to analyze the results.

17.5 Analyzing the results and reporting.

At this stage, selected specialists will analyze the data inside the competition infrastructure and prepare a report. This stage usually takes about 1 week. The management committee and the successful bidder will prepare the technical report for the top management. The top management can use it by the goals agreed at the initial stage.
