Investors welcomed the prospect of lower energy costs and reduced geopolitical uncertainty. Chinese shares also traded higher, and regional currencies strengthened.

Investors priced in lower inflation risks and a more supportive outlook for monetary policy. Precious metals also joined the and commodity had added pressure to commodity prices, particularly in energy-importing economies.

Promotion of harvesting a growing challenges

Change, population growth, rapid urbanization and changing weather patterns were increasing pressure on water resources, making efficient water management a national priority.

Economist and agricultural expert Dr. Khizar Nuzki said climate change had posed a serious challenge to Pakistan's agriculture, economy and natural resources, with irregular rainfall, rising temperatures and extreme weather events affecting water availability and food security. He stressed the need to adopt sustainable water management practices, including rainwater harvesting, to reduce pressure on conventional water resources.

Revival of FPCCI Romania Business Yield in Lahore

Revival of leather goods, sports products, IT services, education, rice, (BC) cookware, cutlery, printing machinery, engineering products, and Himalayan pink salt (CC) products.

Addressing the meeting, FPCCI Vice President Tariq Mehmood Jadoon reaffirmed FPCCI's commitment to exploring new avenues of bilateral trade and investment. He described Romania as an important access point to the European market and highlighted the export potential of Pakistani textiles, agricultural products, pharmaceuticals, sports goods, surgical instruments, renewable energy solutions, logistics services, and engineering products. Ambassador Ilyas Mehmood Nizami informed participants that Romania represents a promising market due to its sizeable economy and purchasing power. He emphasized the importance of meeting European certification and quality standards to enhance Pakistani exports.
